For longest-term supply chain security use the SDP800 series, which is mechanically equivalent to SDP5xx/SDP6xx, but has a different I²C command set. Consult the SDP8xx transition guide for details.

Note:

The SDP5xx series was originally introduced as a cost-optimized extension of the SDP6xx platform. With most customers having adopted the latest SDP800 series, we are simplifying our portfolio by consolidating the SDP5xx and SDP6xx families. Because both series share the same mechanical and electronic design, the higher accuracy SDP6xx serves as a seamless, drop-in replacement - offering improved performance with no design changes required.
